You and your class are invited to attend the Nebraska Children's Groundwater Festival held in Grand Island. This free educational event is open to all Nebraska 4th and 5th grade teachers and their students. The internationally acclaimed Nebraska Children's Groundwater Festival teaches students about groundwater and other natural resources through in-depth, hands-on activities.

This fun and exciting event will bring the topic of groundwater to life. After attending, students will understand Nebraska's groundwater and realize what a precious resource it truly is.

- Each school group will attend the Festival for a four-hour block.
- Students will attend five 25-minute classroom sessions, be entertained by a stage show, and enjoy fun games in the Exhibit Hall.
- The Festival's mission is to engage students in groundwater lessons through hands-on, interactive activities.
- The Festival provides the opportunity to meet several 4th and 5th grade science standards for the State of Nebraska.
- Presenters are water experts/professionals, natural resources experts, current & retired educators, environmental science students, and other professionals dedicated to groundwater education.
