Nebraska Children's Groundwater Festival

Educating youth on the importance of our most precious resource...
GROUNDWATER.

- Each school group attends for a 4-hour block.
- Includes 6 classroom sessions and a stage show.
- Students are engaged students in groundwater lessons through hands-on, interactive activities.
- Presenters are water and natural resources professionals and experts, current & retired educators, high school environmental science students & other professionals dedicated to groundwater education.

Nebraska Children's Groundwater Festival

You and your class are invited to attend the Nebraska Children's Groundwater Festival held at CCC/College Park in Grand Island!

NEW...To allow more schools to attend, the grade level invited to attend is 5th grade only. This will ensure only a one-year waiting list.

The Groundwater Festival is a free educational event that teaches students about groundwater quality, conserving groundwater use, and other natural resources through in-depth, hands-on activities. This fun and exciting event will bring the topic of groundwater to life. After attending the festival, students will better understand how important groundwater is to their daily lives.
